

Here
we don't give out awards for books except to say: this is true.

Our poets
return to the fields each morning.

And when the earth
comes to roll between the sun and the moon we all
cast the shadow of eclipse.

March 31st, '97
C. Mehrhoff