

Life: because it pretends towards an end.
Breath: as the closest thing we've got to being alive.
Abundance: breasts wading out into a lake of milk.
Need: arises before there is a need.
Humanity: each wants what the other has and denies it.
Culture: as the lie the spirit is often led to believe that it hails from.
Instinct: as flight without the master.
Faith: what meat must taste like to the hawk.
Madness: looking for what common threads.
Life: as a parting gift.

'98/'99

C. Mehrhoff