

The background is a watercolor illustration. It features several irregular, organic shapes in shades of light green and yellow-green, which appear to be hills or fields. These are set against a larger, textured grey area that looks like a sky or a misty background. The overall style is soft and painterly.

Ever catch a glimpse of a stone breathing?
Almost a burden.

Feb. 18th, '95
C. Mehrhoff